Mr. Taggart stated the theory of the prosed by Mrs Bonine and that she gained reaching it by means of the fire esor twice during the address she leaned over and spoke to her attorneys.

In his address Mr. Taggart contend ed that the killing of Ayres had been telonious and malicious and therefore was a student of dentistry and she had studied medicine. As a consequence she became a visitor to his room in the hotel, where they both lived, not only in the daytime, but at night, as well, "and," he added, "the door was not always upen when she was there." He told of the quarrels between Mr. Frenz saw, also his friend them, saying that Ayres ceased to Faulkert standing motionless, his speak to her and that she complained advances to him, Ayres did not avail himself of the opportunity thus offered, beyond dancing with her again." He had danced with her on the night before the tragedy, but had shown that he was averse to a renewal of the tormer familiar intercourse. As an instance of his attitude to ward Mrs. Bonine, Mr Taggart said that Ayres had refused to accept a carnation from her on the Monday before the killing. It was theretore, evident, said the attorney, that while he was indifferent, there was a disposition on her part to modify him.

remedy. To say it is a "good" plaster does not describe it; it is the best possible plaster. For every disease in which an external remedy is available, Benson's Plaster is used almost as a matter of course. Benson's Plaster quickly relieves and cures where other modes of treatment arseither erasperatingly slow or have no good effect whatever. Coughs, colds, lumbago, kidney trouble, rheumatism, lame back, etc., are at once benefited and soon cured. Capsicum, Strengthening and Belladonna plasters have none of the curative virtues of Benson's. More than 5,000 physicians and druggists have commended Benson's, Plaster as a remedy in which the public may have implicit considence; while, in a comparative test with other plasters, Benson's has received fifty-fice highest awards.
